

Advantages of a CICIND Membership

To be a member of the world's only professional Association for Industrial Construction can be advantageous to you from many aspects such as:

- You are an Individual among 160 likeminded Members, involved in the Technology of Industrial Construction
- You are member in an international association represented in all five continents, in 39 industrial countries
- You profit from the contact with experts among the members for consultancy to problems which might occur in your daily business
- You receive a full Directory of all CICIND members, including Mailing address and all communication facilities.
- You profit from nearly 50 years of technical evaluations and research and the relevant publications
- You get for free all Technical Standard Publications, such as the six Model Codes (Standards for Concrete, Steel or GRO/FRP Chimneys and Linings) and seven Technical Publications. Altogether in a commercial sales value of 1000 Euro
- You get preferred rates for the special Publications, such as the CICIND Chimney Book, The Technical Manual, the CICIND History Book, etc.
- You have access to two international Conferences per year.
- You have the possibility to present your company in a small exhibition at the occasion of our Conferences
- You have the Option to present in lectures at our conferences your activities and your professional involvement
- You get for free two CICIND Reports per year with summaries of the Lectures at the conferences and additional information from CICIND around the Construction industry
- You have access to more than 1000 published lectures, presented at conferences in the past
- You can Apply for financial support of research projects, if you present a scientific project of general interest
- You will experience our special "meeting culture" and our "Association Culture" which allows an amicable and personal contact among all members
- You can enjoy the friendly atmosphere within the association: Come and Join CICIND Make new friends in the "worldwide Chimney Family of CICIND" .